

QUALITY POLICY

ACell's Executive Management team is fully committed to offering innovative medical devices that provide improved outcomes for patients requiring complex soft tissue reconstruction and wound management in the United States and around the world.

- We are dedicated to developing, manufacturing, and distributing the highest quality, safe and effective regenerative extracellular matrix medical devices.
- We are dedicated to providing innovative solutions to augment continuum of care for patients requiring complex soft tissue reconstruction and various challenging wound management conditions through strategic distributor partnerships.
- We are committed to ensuring the safety and effectiveness of our medical devices through continuous improvement to our Quality Management System and compliance with all applicable standards and regulatory requirements.

ACell management and employees take great pride as a leader in technology for complex soft tissue reconstruction and wound management that offers superior healing options for doctors and patients.

PATRICK MCBRAYER
President and Chief Executive Officer

BARRY BRAINARD
Sr. Director of Quality